

Aug. 30th, 1926.

lived in Jersey City Heights). He stated that on many occasions his wife stayed away all night and was untrue to him. Mr. Kesserling's lawyer in the divorce action was John H. Bonn of Union Hill, N.J.

Mr. Kesserling has three children by his second wife. He stated that he is positive that his wife Mary Eisleitner was born in Hoboken. At the time he married her she was living on Durant St. between 1st and 2nd Streets and the family was well known in the neighborhood. He never lived with her in Hoboken. He is a loom fixer by trade and has always been in the silk business and never a cooper.

Operative bought Kesserling a few drinks while we were in the saloon. He stated he had been laid off for four months as the silk business was slow on account of the Passaic strike and that he has only been working two weeks now. He said if I located Detective Messingkop he would be able to give me a lot of information regarding this woman. Operative asked Mr. Kesserling what he thought of the Pig Woman's story and he said "she is a liar and would lie or do anything for money and would never tell the truth." she was always telling him lies, but he found her out and rid himself of her.

Mr. Kesserling is a short man, about 5 ft. tall, 56 years of age, wears a mustache and is a hard working type of man.

At 10 P.M. Operative left Kesserling and returned to New York City.
